

Comments Received on Regenerative Agriculture Definition*
Comment Period: October 2024

*These are written comments received via email to RegenerativeAg@cdfa.ca.gov or through chat box via public listening sessions. Written comments submitted in the Zoom chat box during public listening sessions and work group sessions will be posted elsewhere. You may submit a written comment at any time to RegenerativeAg@cdfa.ca.gov. Comments will be posted at the end of each month.

Date	Written Comment
10/16/24	"Regenerative agriculture is a holistic farming approach that aims to restore and enhance the natural resilience of agroecosystems while supporting the long-term health and viability of agricultural businesses and communities. The foundation of this farming system is the integrated management of soil health, biodiversity, water resources, human health, and climate."