

At last month's American Chemical Society meeting, Miriam Sticklen of Michigan State University presented a paper on GM corn. Imagine rice straw and corn stalks as cattle feed instead of water hungry alfalfa. This sounds like the best strategy for second generation biofuels. CA agriculture schools should pursue this.

<http://newsroom.msu.edu/site/indexer/3363/content.htm>

David Kerr